WSMP® Coaxial Connectors for Aerospace Applications

WSMP® standard, high-speed or new generation connectors from Rosenberger are approx. 45% smaller than standard SMP connectors and can be used for applications up to 100 GHz.

Outstanding product features are extremely high packing densities and minimum board-to-board distances of 3.05 mm. Radial and axial misalignments can be compensated by using bullets.

The product range has been revised and contains e.g. cable connectors, PCB connectors, adaptors (bullets), multipin connectors or cable assemblies. WSMP® connectors from Rosenberger are certified according DIN EN 9100 and qualified for aerospace application.

A new flyer with detailed product information is available.
